The Journal of Young Reporters

All through the competitions on Sunday morning, students participating in the V2S project organized, to the enjoyment of the young athletes and interpreters and in collaboration with the Erasmus project, workshops for them to spend some friendly time together between the moments of competition.

In the first workshop, the young athletes and interpreters were asked to play volley ball while seated. Although it was a very playful activity, it was also a way for them to know what it's like to be handicapped.

The second workshop was less serious. It was called "Living Puppet" and consisted in bending over in the weirdest positions to put their hands and feet on different colored squares were arranged on a carpet. The goal of this game is to stay on the carpet without falling as long as possible. This funny game strengthened the ties between the different players, and even allowed the creation of new friendships.

And to complete these workshops, the members of the Erasmus and V2S (Volunteering in School Sport) projects decided, with the help of the regional UNSS service and the Think Tank Sport, to hold a conference about volunteering in Sport and developing competences. In attendance of this conference will be: Laurent Petrynka, ISF president and national UNSS manager, Hongyan Pi, French badminton player, has been France champion 7 times, former number two worldwide, Jean Pierre Valery, Rhône-Alpes development manager, Organization «At against exclusion», and a lot more other personalities.

The exchange will be organized by Geraldine Pons, Eurosport journalist, Citizenship and Sport Think Tank ambassador.

Pic' of the day

On Sunday evening, the young players of the first European Schools Championship of Badminton, held in Clermont-Ferrand, participated in the traditional ISF Nation's party. This party was based on the idea of a cultural and culinary exchange. Indeed, each country prepared a culinary speciality and a performance such as a dance, a song or a film. Everyone enjoyed this moment and cheered for each other.
